

THE PROGRESSIVE
February 1981

February briefing

Loon Lake, D.C. . . . The ever surprising, ever loony U.S. Labor Party, once ultra-Left, now ultra-Right, has come up with another zany but sinister ploy. The group has been selectively distributing "confidential" dossiers on several journalists, activists, and union workers to offices on Capitol Hill. Describing their subjects as "KGB-connected," the dossiers are replete with personal as well as political histories. They suggest the USLP may have practiced surveillance on its targets or gathered information from Federal or local intelligence agencies.

NO COMMENT

No authors wanted . . . The CIA now asks every job applicant, "Do you plan to write a book about your experience at the agency?" Answers are monitored by lie-detectors.
